EASYJET CLASH

EASYJET'S largest shareholder Sir Stelios Haji-Ioannou has complained to the Financial Conduct Authority about the airline's giant AIRBUS order. The airline has been battling for weeks over a £4.5billion order for 107 new aircraft, which Sir Stelios argues should be cancelled in order to preserve cash in the crisis. Last week, easyJet compromised by saying it would defer the purchase of 24 aircraft. Sir Stelios argues the airline has breached the UK's market abuse regulations and listing rules as it did not get shareholder approval before deferring the order.
